

Ipsum Lorem Ipsum
Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit. Sed do eiusmod tempor incididunt ut labore et dolore magna aliqua. Ut enim ad minim veniam, quis nostrud exercitation ullamco laboris nisi ut aliquip ex ea commodo consequat. Duis aute irure dolor in reprehenderit in voluptate velit esse cillum dolore eu fugiat nulla pariatur. Excepteur sint occaecat cupidatat non proident, sunt in culpa qui officia deserunt mollit anim id est laborum.

North Carolina College Media Association

Nae Anderson is a photographer and videographer in N.C. A&T Athletics Sports Production. The N.C. A&T alumna was photo editor of The A&T Register.

Alicia Bell currently organizes and manages News Voices: North Carolina, a project of Free Press aimed at shifting the culture of community and journalist interaction and relationship. Bell — born, raised and living in Charlotte, North Carolina — is also a part of Angelou House, a placemaking and placekeeping initiative that convenes and curates space and place for relationship and community building oriented toward social, political and economic justice.

Tynesha Brown is an adjunct professor in N.C. A&T's Graphic Design Technology Department, teaching students creative ways to share information through graphic design, multimedia and web development. She graduated from N.C. A&T in 2012 with a bachelor of science in graphic communications systems and received her master of arts in interactive media from Elon University in 2014.

Emily Burch Harris is a lecturer and newspaper adviser at N.C. A&T. She teaches advanced courses in the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication, directs the student news-editorial staff and manages the business staff and the newspaper's financial operations. Before academia, she worked for newspapers and magazines in the Carolinas, including Plants Sites & Parks and the Greensboro News & Record.

Jonathan Carter is a fourth-year student at NC State University studying political science. He has worked for Technician, NC State's student news organization, since his freshman year and has served as editor-in-chief since April 2017.

Cooper Elias is the digital marketing manager for MDO Holdings. He previously worked as the digital and social marketing manager for the Carolina Hurricanes. Former editor of the Agromeck yearbook at NC State, Elias has led workshop courses at regional and national conferences.

Brooks Fuller is director of the N.C. Open Government Coalition and an instructor in the School of Communications at Elon University. He was formerly an assistant professor in the Manship School of Communication at Louisiana State University.

Howard Gaither is a professional commercial photographer. Gaither began pursuing a career in photography before he graduated from N.C. A&T. He has obtained his certification in portrait photography from the Professional Photographers of America Association and shot hundreds of weddings in addition to product photography, corporate events, magazines and directories.

Chyami Hill of CHillDesigns Photography is a wedding and portrait photographer based in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Shinika McKiever is the director of Corporate and Foundation Relations in the Division of University Advancement at N.C. A&T. She is currently working on her doctorate in Leadership Studies at N.C. A&T and received the 2018 NC Central University 40 Under 40 Alumni and 2018 Triad Business Journal 40 Leaders Under 40 awards.

Ellen Meder is an editorial adviser for the two student newspapers at NC State Student Media, Technician and Nubian Message. Previously she worked as an education beat reporter at the Morning News in Florence, South Carolina, and covered state government for WSPA in Columbia. At the University of South Carolina, she served as editor-in-chief at The Daily Gamecock.

Nikki Miller-Ka is a freelance recipe developer, editor and writer of Nik Snacks, a 10-year-old food blog based in the Southeast. She is a classically trained chef with a bachelor in arts in English from East Carolina University and a culinary arts degree from Le Cordon Bleu-Miami. She contributes to the News & Record as a restaurant reviewer.

School of Media and Journalism
University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill
284 Carroll Hall, CB#3365
Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3365

Valerie Nieman teaches creative writing at N.C. A&T. She has held state and NEA creative writing fellowships, and was a founding editor of two literary journals. She graduated from West Virginia University and Queens University of Charlotte and is a former journalist. Her third poetry collection, Leopard Lady: A Life in Verse, is newly published, with a fourth novel set to come out this spring.

Khadejeh Nikouyeh is a staff photographer at the News & Record in Greensboro. She is an adjunct instructor at Randolph Community College.

Kourtney Pope is a social media manager for Kiehl's. She received her bachelor of science in multimedia journalism from N.C. A&T.

Yasmine Register is a staff writer for Carolina Peacemaker.

Kevin Rippin is a lecturer at N.C. A&T, where he teaches writing. He has published articles, reviews and poetry in magazines and journals across the country. His full-length poetry collection, Amber Drive, was published by Main Street Rag Press in July 2018. He received a master of arts in writing from the University of Pittsburgh.

Zila Sanchez is a junior multimedia journalism student from Charlotte, North Carolina. She currently serves as the managing editor of The A&T Register, and is a member of the National Association of Hispanic Journalists and a campus member of the National Association of Black Journalists.

Kim Smith, Ph.D., is an associate professor at N.C. A&T in the Department of Journalism and Mass Communications. His research interests include multimedia, health communication, social media's impact on society and the portrayal of people of color in the media. He received his bachelor of arts at Howard University, and his master of arts and Ph.D. from the University of South Carolina.

Paul Tuttle has served as the N.C. A&T director of proposal development since 2015. He holds an M.A. in English with a concentration in rhetoric and composition. Tuttle's persuasive writing background has enabled him to help secure over $100 million in sponsored program awards.

Damion Waymer, Ph.D., leads the Liberal Studies program at N.C. A&T. Prior to joining N.C. A&T, Waymer led recruiting efforts as associate provost for faculty affairs, development and diversity at the University of Cincinnati. His research projects address fundamental concerns about issues of power, race, class and gender.

Alexis Wray is editor-in-chief of The A&T Register. She is a junior journalism and mass communications major with a concentration in multimedia journalism. Wray, from Crumpler, North Carolina, has worked for The A&T Register for two years.

Elissa Yancey is a project leader for Poynter's College Media Project. She has served as the environmental editor for WCPO.com, a Scripps Company. Yancey also co-founded the nonprofit WordPlay Cincy. She received her bachelor of arts from the University of Cincinnati and her master's in education from Northwestern University's School of Education and Social Policy.